

A Street, or a Zoo?

By Mala Kumar, Manisha Chaudhry

Sonu, Monu and Rina went out to play. While outside, they saw a kitten. She was looking at a big rat. “Oh look!” shouted Sonu. Rina saw that a tiny ant was going towards the big rat.

Suddenly, a very big shadow fell upon them all. A giant eagle flew down to the street. On the street there were a tiny ant, a small kitten, a big rat and a giant eagle! What would the three clever children do now?

They clapped their little hands! The eagle spread its big wings and flew away.

Rina made the ant climb onto a leaf. Then, she left the leaf on a wall. The ant saw a grain of sugar so she picked it up and ran home.

PRATHAM BOOKS

A Book in Every Child's Hand

This story has been provided for free under the CC-BY license by Pratham Books. Originally illustrated by Priya Kuriyan.

Next the big rat picked up a half-eaten pakoda, and went back into the drain. Then the small kitten said 'meoww' and started licking her paw.

Monu got her some milk in a cup and the three kids played with her while the giant eagle sitting on the tree blinked and flew far away.

THE END

Click below to follow us:

You Tube

facebook

